Fish skeletons are described that were discovered during scientific excavations in the Upper Oligocene black pelites of Lake Kunkskopf, near Burgbrohl (Germany) carried out in 1998 and 1999 by the Landesamt für Denkmalpflege Rheinland-Pfalz. All skeletons belong to a single species, Tarsichthys cf. macrurus (AGASSIZ), which was already known from time-equivalent sediments of the Siebengebirge. Difficulties and misunderstandings in the classification of the fish species of Lake Constance, especially of Cyprinidae and Coregoninae, induced us to work out a determination key. When basing a classification only on the number of gill rakers it was impossible to determine the Coregoninae. Are you sure you want to remove A report on the fishing survey of Lakes Albert and Kioga from your list? There's no description for this book yet. Can you add one?
